

HARVARD'S
HIP-HOP
HUSTLER

JAY MCINERNEY ON THE END OF
THE UPPER EAST SIDE

ADAM STERNBERGH WEIGHS THE ANCHORS

NOVEMBER 20, 2006

NEW YORK

THE BEST HOSPITALS

Where would treatme strokes, hip broken
4 a.m.

FOOD/OPENINGS

Pera Mediterranean Brasserie

303 Madison Ave., nr. 41st St.
212-878-6301

In its heyday, during the Ottoman period, there was no cuisine as sophisticated as Turkish. Sultan Süleyman the Magnificent lived up to his moniker, employing over a thousand cooks to make the kebabs at his posh Topkapi Palace. Pera, a nicely appointed Turkish-leaning restaurant opening later this week, doesn't have that many on its payroll, but it does seem to be making an effort to bring back a little Topkapi Palace panache. On the menu: a chickpea-cruste crab cake, a hand-minced beef-and-bulgur tartare, and what must be New York's first Turkish grilled-meat tasting menu.

by they ancer s sease, ments,
cies...

$2.99 (CANADA $3.99)

WWW.NYMAG.COM